perspective of community threat the consensus oriented perspective of social disorganization and the organizational perspective of the political economy of the juvenile court Using multilevel modeling techniques the study investigates these macro social influences on juvenile justice outcomes across nearly 500 counties in seven states Alabama Connecticut Missouri Oregon South Carolina Texas and Utah Findings suggest that the contextual indicators under investigation did not explain variation in juvenile court punishment across communities and systems and the study proposes several implications for future research and policy This monograph is essential reading for scholars of juvenile justice system impact and reform as well as practitioners engaged in youth policy and juvenile justice work It is unique in taking a comparative perspective that acknowledges that there is no one juvenile justice system in the United States but many such systems
