Accessing Therapy

To access therapy services, you can contact your:

- 1. Local Hospital: Contact your local hospital to find out what in-patient or out-patient services they provide.
- 2. Disability Organisation or Non-Government Organisation (NGO): Some employ therapists as part of their team. Contact your local council for a list of disability services/ organisations in your area. Surf the internet to find local services.
- 3. ACAT (My Aged Care): If you are over 65 years old, you might be eligible for an ACAT assessment. If you need to meet with a member of an Aged Care Assessment Team (ACAT) to help work out what types of care and services you need, you can search for ACATs using the ACAT Finder on the My Aged Care website: www.myagedcare.gov.au A member of the ACAT can travel to your home to complete the assessment. Call My Aged Care on 1800 200 422 to discuss further information about ACAT assessments and how they work.
- 4. Private Clinic: Read the information below on how to access and fund private therapy sessions.

Private Therapy

To access private therapy, you can find any allied health professional by either:

1. Visiting the Therapy Choices website www.therapychoices.org.au and clicking on “Therapy Services”, then selecting the service that you are searching for
2. Visiting the association’s website, such as OT Australia or Speech Pathology Australia. Then clicking on “Find a Private Practice OT” or “Find a Speech Pathologist”
3. Searching the Yellow Pages: www.yellowpages.com.au
4. Speaking to your GP about local therapy options

Private therapy is not free.

The following are some funding options to access private therapy:

- Private insurance
- Self-funding

Accessing Assistive Technology (National)

National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS)

The NDIS supports people with significant and permanent disability that affects how they can independently take part in everyday activities.

By developing individualised and personal support plans with NDIS participants, the Scheme takes into account the circumstances of families and carers as well as the person with disability.

To receive an individualised support plan you must meet certain eligibility criteria:

- you have a significant and permanent disability. This can include a disability that is 'episodic', meaning that some days are more affected by it than others
 - you are an Australian citizen, a permanent resident or a New Zealand citizen who holds a Protected Special Category Visa
 - you are younger than 65 when you make a formal request to join the NDIS (once you are in though, you have the NDIS for life)
